DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The reply filed on 10/09/03 consists of addition of new claims 23-26 and remarks related to rejection of claims. The claims are not allowable as explained below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 8, 19 and 21-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Correa et al.

Correa (Figures 1-6) shows an apparatus and method of attenuating electrostatic discharge comprising a conductive faceplate 14 with an opening 12 and a circular faceplate extension 24 with a slit extending outwardly from the periphery of the opening to form a waveguide wherein optical fiber connector 10, which can receive and/or transmit (transceiver) signals, communicate through the faceplate extension.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al. in view of Sikorski, Jr.

Correa et al. shows all the features of this claim as described in Paragraph 3 above except the extension to be rectangular. The instant invention does not provide any reasons or specific problem to be solved by having a rectangular shape. Sikorski shows a faceplate 20 with a plurality of rectangular openings 22, which accepts a plurality of rectangular extensions 30. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to make the Correa's faceplate extension rectangular because it is one of the other (other than circular) most common configuration as shown by Sikorski.

6. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al. in view of Terada et al.

Correa et al. shows all the features of this claim as described in Paragraph 3 above except the material of the faceplate extension to be aluminum alloy. Terada discloses the use of aluminum alloy for an optical fiber ferrule holder 51 (Page 7, Paragraph 82). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to make the Correa's faceplate extension of aluminum alloy because of its linear expansion properties as taught by Terada and it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Art Unit: 2839

7. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al..

Correa et al. shows all the features of this claim as described in Paragraph 3 above except the faceplate extension to project at least 0.2 inches from the faceplate. The instant invention does not provide any specific problem to be solved by making the faceplate projection at least 0.2 inches. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to make faceplate projection at least 0.2 inches because a change in size is generally recognized within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

8. Claims 9, 10, 12, 13, 16-18 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al. in view of Sikorski, Jr..

Correa et al. shows all the features of these claims as described in Paragraph 3 except a plurality of openings in the faceplate and a plurality of faceplate extensions. Sikorski shows a plurality of openings 22 in the faceplate 20. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the instant invention to provide a plurality of openings in the Correa et al.'s faceplate and to use a plurality of faceplate extensions because this would require a mere duplication of an essential part involving only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v Bemis Co, 193 USPQ 8.

9. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al. in view of Sikorski, Jr.

Correa et al. and Sikorski show all the features of this claim as described in Paragraphs 3, 5 and 8 above.

Art Unit: 2839

10. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al. in view of Sikorski, Jr.

Correa et al. and Sikorski show all the features of this claim as described in Paragraphs 3, 6 and 8 above.

11. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Correa et al. in view of Sikorski, Jr.

Correa et al. and Sikorski show all the features of this claim as described in Paragraphs 3, 7 and 8 above.

Response to Arguments

12. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-22 have been considered but are not persuasive. Correa (Column 2, lines 54-58) clearly indicates that the extension (nut) 24 provides a conductive path from the tubular member 30 for shielding for electrostatic discharge, and therefore forms an electrostatic waveguide.
